SOME SUGGESTIONS

On a Political Nature Concerning Preachers and Other
'Good People.'Are You a Renegade or Fool Democrat?We clip the following from the Lexington Morning Herald of Thursday, October 29."On Tuesday night there was held in Louisville a large and very imposing mass meeting of citizens who desire the election of Henry Stoner as criminal judge. The speakers were Col. Thos. W. Bullock, a Confederate and old Democrat, who refused to vote for Bryanin 1896 and in 1900, and who now highly calls himself an Independent. Mrs. Helm Bruce, who was reared in the very strictest school of old-time religion, sons rights Democratism, and the Rev. Dr. Powell, whois a free silver Democrat in 1896 voted for Mr. Bryan and who pounces his continued connection with the Democratic party.
The chairman was Mr. Donald Donald, a Confederate, a free silver Democrat and now a Democrat. We have rarely read as goodand thoughtful speeches as those made at this meeting; and we are unable to decide whether the speech of Helm Bruce or Dr. Powell is the ablest or more eloquent."It was a non-partisan meeting, held to protest against certain violent attacks on Henry Stoner and to advocate his election.In passing we extract two epigrammatic sentences from the speech of Dr. Powell: 'I am not a renegade Democrat. A renegade Democrat is one who votes his party ticket without consulting his conscience. I am not a fool Democrat—one who votes his partyticket without consulting his intelligence.' We cordially commend these weighty sentences to our readers."It will be noticed that the chairman and all the speakers were in tenet and principle Democrats;
two were sound money Democrats;
two free silver Democrats; two had been in the Confederate army and had 'quit themselves like men.Our object is to emphasize the belief that preachers, lawyers, all men, ought to take a more active part in our canvasses, in all our political matters and more often participate in our popular assemblies and mass meetings. We think it well for preachers not to become active politicians, not to participate prominently in the manchi-nery of parties and not to be active in mere personal advocacy of candidates. But preachers, all professional men, as well as all business men, are citizens, and every citizen owes it to himself, to his family, to his business, to his city, his county, his State, his country to play his part in the discussion, settlement and consummation of all political matters. All citizens ought on proper occasions to attend popular meetings, and be ready to lead, guide, instruct, protect, denounce, if need be. The country ought to have for her service her very best and best qualified citizens in Kentucky.Where our judiciary is elective, the judicial department—its integrity, its ability, its purity, its fearles-ness may depend on political parties and political machinery. And sometimes this becomes the most vital part of practical politics.
Whenever the courts are controlled by the criminal or semi-criminal classes, where the judges are elected, then the purification of the ju-ount issue of political action.

Perhaps in a free country the most disastrous results of party politics is a corrupt, subservient and incompetent judiciary; a judiciary in secret but recognized partnership with the semi-criminal classes; a judiciary which is in part annex and in part a tool of the corruptwholly 'unknown to us. But the appearance of such men on that platform—the speeches there delivered—will have an effect on the people of Louisville and the State in exciting indignation at wrong and creating a purpose to fight for the right.Yet we put precious little reliance on the work and persistency of the comes the duty of every citizen—including the preachers—to unite for the redemption of such judiciary by driving from it, or preventing the election to it, of time-serving, weak and corrupt judges."This meeting and these speeches may or may not have any appreciable effect on this pending canvass —and what effect it will have is"good people" of a community. As a rule they are an ill-disciplined, half-hearted and easily depressed multitude, without the heart to make a fight and an irresistible tendency to quit fighting after one campaign, they are enthusiastic, intense and evanescent. They generally fire blank cartridges and the noise of the explosion is loud, the smell ofpowder acute and the execution nil.

They are elegant on dress parade and unavailing in battle. If they happen to win one victory it elates and disbands them, and each returns to the sweets of private life with much boasting, and the semi-criminal classes emerge from their temporary hiding place and resume business at the old stand. The "good people" are responsible for all habitual crime, for the continuance of all systematic, scientific and organized disobedience to law.
If they were one-tenth as earnest as they think they are, they would always win.

Poultry Shows.

Encourage the shows, for they are the life of the business. It is here where the beginner becomes interested and determines to buy some fowls which catches his eye.
Many sales of stock and eggs are made as a result of the show.At the show where birds of every description, from the Bantam to the Brahma in an endless variety of shapes and colors are on dress parade, that is where among the many visitors thousands are annually added to the list of Fanciers.There seems to be something irresistible in the grand array of fine feathers at the poultry show which awakens a longing desire to possess some of the many beautiful fowls on exhibition, in the breasts of nearly every one attending the show.As an aid to those who have already begun the breeding of purebred poultry the show serves as a school where he must learn by placing his fowls in competition with others, in order to ascertain their true worth and if found wanting, profit by the experience gained,
study the score cards of your birds, see wherein they were found wanting and breed out the defects before another year.Give the show your hearty support. Become a member of your poultry association. If you live in the State of Kentucky send one dollar for one year's membership in the Kentucky State Poultry Association to Jas. H. Good, Louisville, Ky., and take an active part in the coming show which will be held at Louisville, Jan. 4 to 10 1904.—Inland Farmer.

The Guns We Shoot.

The annual report of Gen. Gillespie, Chief of Engineers of the Army, submits a total estimate of $10,866,100 for fortifications for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1905. Defense of our insular possessions has been approved and will soon be under way. The sea coast defenses of the United States are now more than 50 per cent completed. There are now 334 twelve, ten and eight-inch guns, 567 rapid-fire guns and 376 twelve inch mortars. Gen. Gillespie asks for $250,000 for work on the Ohio falls and $3,000,000 for the Ohio river.Angora goat raising is becoming more popular each succeeding year because live stock producers are convinced that there is money in growing this animal, says the Drovers' Journal. The Angora makes money in more ways than any other animal. His flesh, pelt and hair all have a high commercial value, but in many places his greatest worth is in cleaning up the brush and small undergrowth which bars the way to cultivation of the soil. We are heavy importers of goat skins, the value last year being $25,000,000. There is no use in importing any when we have the best country in the world for raising them. The numbers are gaining so rapidly that in time we may be exporters both of skins and mohair.

VICTORY.

There will be many solutions advanced for the majority of Tuesday's election. We have ours and it is this: First, the State is democratic; second, the flattering promises of the Republicans and the Democratic scare crows they had out went for nothing; third, the Beckham administration had been clean, and the payment of debt from a claim collected after the failure of others to do so; fourth, the enforcement of the laws against all manner of crime from assassination and murder down; fifth, the presentation of a clean and capable ticket; sixth, Democrats stood out against trusts and all kinds of combinations and contended for the right of the great common people; seventh, Democratic organization; eighth, the continuous and effective work of the campaign committee; ninth, the people lined up for the party that brought about results. There are many other reasons why they went to the polls and made the great aggregation of Tuesday. Another we append: The suffrage of the people was beyond the influence of the enemy's corruption fund.

The election of Morgan Chinn to the office of Clerk of the Court of Appeals gives our Wm. B. O'Connell the chief deputy's position. We are glad. He will make a fine official.

From Frenchburg.

Menefee county gave Beckham a majority of 395 and Whitt, candidate for Senator, 444.

BE CONSIDERATE.

We want our Democrats to show their enjoyment over the great victory, but we would urge consideration of the feelings of those sorely disappointed. We drive them farther away by showing an aggravating spirit. The reasonable will accept with manliness the inevitable result, and the fellow with his bristles up, epithetical by word and spirit, is not worthy of notice. Be considerate.

DEMOCRACY LIVETH.

Some of the ardent Republicans have been giving out the free information that Democracy was dead, but yesterday's election furnishes evidence of much life. She has shaken the bushes and the majorities place Kentucky out of the doubtful column to stay.

Montgomery has proved herself Democratic by the vote of Tuesday, giving the head of the ticket a majority of 309.

All the former city Councilmen were re-elected in 1st, 2nd and 4th wards, and in the 3rd Ben Hamilton, colored, was added. The Council now stands 6 Democrats and 2 Republicans, the Republicans are colored men.

Kentucky Democrats win by over 20,000. Gains in every section. Montgomery did herself proud in State and local ticket.

Fit and Style!

There are some things which can't be improved. One of these things is the "QUEEN QUALITY" Shoe for women. You can make it more elaborate, you can decorate it, embellish it, use costly materials and all that. But for $100 a pair than "QUEEN QUALITY," having regard solely to the two great essentials of FIT and STYLE. This means that mechanically it is perfect. As for its appearance, the fact that one hundred thousand women choose it instantly above all other shoes would seem to indicate that it is attractive. Why don't you go as far as to try on a pair the next time you go to the store? It costs nothing to see them fit your foot.

You Cannot Make a Better Shoe

Boots, $3.00. Oxfords, $2.50.

Damaged.

The covering of the new fountain on Court St., was on last night saturated with coal oil and burned. The entire face of the fountain was smoked and discolored.

To burn and damage city property is as great a crime as to ply the torch to a barn or residence, and the persons guilty of the crime need a lesson of correction. They can be spotted without a doubt, and we have officials capable of the task. The work of the women of our city made the fountain a possibility and this conduct is an assault on their generous deed.

Important Deals.

We clip the following from the Magazine (Ark.) Gazette:
"C. C. McCormick is now a member of the Magazine Real Estate Co. The company is now composed of the following gentlemen: J. J. Barrett, Dr. J. D. Harris, and C. C. McCormick. This is a good reliable company and any one wishing to sell or buy real estate will do well to confer with them. They have made several very important deals since they have been in the business." Our best wishes attend him.

Returned From Texas.

On Thursday Patrick Chase, of Jeffersonville, returned from a short trip to Houston, Texas. He bought 157 acres of rice land near Katy, 17 miles from Houston. Whether or not he will put into practice his agricultural knowledge gained on the fertile fields around Jeffersonville upon the rice fields of Texas, remains to be seen. He left at our office a sample head of rice and the horn of a Texas steer. Call and see if you wish. He was accompanied by H. H. Salyer.

Clothing Economy.

"Save enough on your suit to buy you a hat," is the rather attractive text of Oldham Bros. & Co.'s advertisement elsewhere in this paper. This firm sells the hand-tailored clothing of Schloss Bros. & Co., "the best clothes makers," of Baltimore, Md. They are the largest manufacturers in the world of men's attire, and their Brighton Sack is one of the most popular suits. A very handsome suit can be had for so little money as $15.

El Kimbrell Auctioneer, reports the sale of T. J. Fletcher on the 29th, near Carmargo as follows:

Farm of 44 acres to Marion Chase for $900, one red cow for $25; two calves $15; one aged mare $18.75; three pigs $5.25; corn 60c to $1.55 per shock. House hold and farming implements sold fairly well. Mr. Fletcher leaves at once for Clay City, where he is engaged as book-keeper for Capt. A. E. Barnett & Son. We regret to lose Mr. Fletcher and family, but our loss is Powell county's gain.

Additional Protection.

While water for fire protection is scarce, resort will be made to the cisterns dug before the present water works were constructed.

The Mt. Sterling authorities have kindly let us have their steam engine. Water will be forced into the water mains and the various fire cisterns will be filled.—Winchester Democrat.

Temperance Lecture.

Mrs. Katherine Lente Stevenson, President of the Mass. W. C. T. U., will lecture in this city at the Baptist church on Friday evening at 7:30. She is prominent in temperance work, and we hope many will hear her on this important question. Admission 25 cents. Proceeds will apply on public fountain debt.

Too Much Gas.

H. L. Green and wife, of Chicago, were killed by escaping gas. He was editor of the Free Thought Magazine, a leading infidel Journal.

New Bank.

A new bank is to be opened at Sandy Hook, Elliott county, in the near future. Dr. L. F. V. Williams of the Lenora Deposit Bank, Morehead, is the promoter.

Circuit Court.

Circuit court opened at Morehead on Monday of last week with his Honor Judge Cooper on the bench, for his last term of court. Owing to the interest aroused by the coming election, court adjourned on Tuesday until after the election.

The ladies of the Baptist Church will give a Court-Day dinner the 3rd Monday in November.

At Home.

Walsh Bros. is composed of Robert P. and John J. Walsh, men reared in the mercantile business at Mt. Sterling. Mr. Robert Walsh's introduction into business here was with the Prince of merchants C. W. Carpenter, in the Mammoth store, known as C. W. Carpenter & Co. From this firm he was associated with L. B. Ringold. John J.'s debut in business was under the employment of Mr. Ringold. They were with him in the clothing and furnishing business, the former seven years and the latter nine years. They came here from Carlisle, Pa. Robert came in 1884 and John in 1886, they were with Mr. Ringold until February 1896 when they formed a partnership under the above styled firm and purchased of Mr. Ringold his stock. Their capital was small savings from salesman salaries and the confidence they had established with Mr. Ringold and the trade. As evidence of worth after seven years work at the old stand on West Main street is the fine metropolitan structure on North West corner of Main and Maysville streets recently designed and constructed especially for their business. The building is so constructed as to show to the best advantage from any point you may approach it. It is really a three story building. The first, a basement room, with a grouted cement floor which is employed as follows: The half next to Maysville street is a storage and packing room. The first floor with entrance exactly on the corner is 22x72 feet, ceiling 14 feet with balcony in rear which is gained by a stairway of easy decline. On Maysville and Main streets are handsome show windows in natural furniture finished oak and 2 french plate glass windows 8x14 feet. The windows on Main has a depth of three feet with six feet on Maysville. The tables on which rest the high makes of clothing, the umbrella stands and window furniture were furnished by Oscar Onken & Co., Cincinnati. The show and hat cases by Schmitt & Co., Cincinnati and the shelving, banisters and balcony cornice and railing is the fine natural wood finish from the mills of McCormick & Lyon and the architectural designing was by Ed. Williams, of this city. Sixty incandescent and two electric arcs furnish the lights. The front of the first floor is occupied with men's clothing and furnishings and the rear contains their stock of men's and boy's foot wear. The first balcony is occupied by book-keeper, cashier and a stock of juvenile clothing. The second floor is filled with overcoats, trunks and traveling cases with the balcony to this floor is used for duplicate stocks. The building is in every way an ornament to the city, and the people are happy with this striking firm, that they have in so short a time reached the goal of their ambition.

Walsh Bros. have moved to their new store on the corner.

THE GRAND OPENING OF WALSH BROTHERS NEW STORE.

From the opening of our doors Saturday morning until the closing at midnight, our store was crowded with buyers and visitors who were elaborate in their praises for the neatness and completeness of this establishment. We are gracious for the many wishes of success showered on us by our patrons and know the public fully appreciates our efforts to give them a trading establishment for men and boys second to none in Kentucky. Everything new, not a dollar's worth of old stock in our house. All of this season's make, style and of the best brands in the world.

WALSH BROTHERS

Are here, and here to stay, and you people know our career in merchandising in this town. You know we have raised the standard of qualities and lowered the prices in every instance of everything we have touched or handled. Whenever a cut in prices was necessary and the public benefitted, WALSH BROS. have been first to do it; and we shall go on and on, standing on the same foundation, in the same course, using the same methods, doing what we believe to be right, carrying the largest stock, the newest styles and best brands; refunding the money when purchase is not satisfactory, treating the child the same as the parent, as long as we remain in the clothing business, and sooner or later you will become one of the buying throng that outgrew our old quarters and forced us to a larger and brighter building right in the heart of the city.

We urge you to come and inspect our magnificent stock, and see how much better goods and how much farther your dollar will go here than elsewhere.

DEATHS.

BACK—Barna Back, aged 70 years, died at Jackson on Friday night.

JAMES—Gladys, the bright six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. James, of Georgetown, Ill., died of fever at their home on Friday, October 29, 1903. Mr. James is a grand-son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. Stephens, and Mrs. James is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kimbrell, of this county. To the bereaved parents we extend our heart felt sympathy in the loss of their darling little one.

POYTZ—Miss Carrie Poytz died Saturday morning, October 31, at 7:00 o'clock. She fell August 17th and broke her hip. She rallied and seemed to be doing well until a week before her death when she began to decline in strength. The end came so gently and peacefully that the family hardly knew she was dead. Born in Scott Co., Ky., February 16, 1832. Joined Cherry Spring Presbyterian Church in 1845, under the preaching of the Rev. Nathan L. Rice, D. D. She lived a christian life; loved her life; loved her home; loved her friends; and she never faltered, devoting her days and years to doing good. There are those living who recall the soft touch, the cooling drink, the words of cheer, the night of vigil when they were fever tossed or suffering with pain that she sat beside the bed in sleepless attendance to their wants. The Confederate Veterans will remember the good food and the warm rain

RELIGIOUS.

Rev. George W. Tupper, of Louisville, preached at Sharpsburg Sunday.

Dr. J. L. Weber, president of Kentucky Wesleyan College, will occupy the pulpit of the Methodist Church Sunday morning and evening.

Geo. O. Barnes was in a meeting at Frenchburg last week. On the 5th of November he begins at Sandy Hook, the 12th at West Liberty and the 19th at Salyersville.

Rev. Geo. A. Joplin, pastor of the First Presbyterian church will have for his theme on next Sunday morning, "After the Election What?" A very cordial invitation is extended to the public.

On Sunday morning many of the Christian churches in Kentucky took offerings for State Missions. The cash receipt and pledges at the church in this city amounted to $115.70, other sums will be added to this.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet on Thursday at 2 o'clock p. m. in the Sunday school room of the Christian church. Every member is requested to be present for business of importance. Please be prompt.

Dr. W. H. Sledge, of Helena, Arkansas, will be here on Wednesday, the 18th, and will preach on that evening at the Baptist Church and also Sunday morning and evening of the 22nd. To the services all members and friends of the congregation are invited.

Dr. J. J. Taylor, now president of Georgetown College, is one of the most gifted preachers of the South, and our pulpit committee are to be congratulated that they have the consent of Dr. Blake, of Lexington, whose pulpit Dr. Taylor was to occupy the coming Sunday morning and evening, permitting him to preach at the Baptist Church here at those times. Hear Dr. Taylor Sunday morning and evening.

Rev. E. O. Guerrant, D. D. preached at the First Presbyterian church last Sunday night. Many of the doctor's old friends and neighbors were glad of this opportunity to hear him, and they were not disappointed, for he preached a very helpful and comforting sermon on God being a very present help in all the trials and sorrows of life.

On Sunday Rev. H. D. Clark began his 17th consecutive year's pastorate of the Christian church in our city. This is of itself evidence of acceptable service. He is deservedly popular not only with his congregation, but with the people of the community. We know of no reason why his service here should not continue for many years. We always feel satisfied, free from anxiety, when we know that he is to appear before any audience, whether in the C. E. meeting before his congregations or in State assemblies. May God's blessing attend him and his.

A large congregation greeted Rev. Geo. A. Joplin at the First Presbyterian church on last Sunday morning when he preached on the topic "How Shall I vote?" Mr. Joplin took for his text "Choose you this day whom ye will serve. He argued that in a government like the United States every man should be a politician to the extent of studying what laws would be good for the country, what men would best make and enforce good laws, and then in voting and working for the election of such men. After giving many practical suggestions in regard to how good measures could be adopted, he closed by saying that the most important thing was for a man to get right with God, then his duty to his fellowmen will be of little importance, for when the hearts of men are right, then homes will be right and government will be just.

NOTICE.—WE Now direct attention to the most varied, extensive and magnificent lines of merchandise ever presented in this section of the State. Time, energy, taste and much study have brought this store to an exalted plane of usefulness. With commodious display areas and bright, cheerful surroundings it is not surprising that this is recognized as the merchandising center of our city. We want your patronage, but not unless we deserve it. If there are worthier goods to be found elsewhere, if prices asked by others are lower than ours, quality considered, it is your privilege to profit by them; but facts prove that not to be case.

Our constant and vigorous growth of patronage is the strongest possible evidence of superior value-giving.

BRUNETTES AND BLONDES.

Woman of Fair Face and Tresses Said to Make Ideal Wife.

The little blonde, with her fair hair and baby blue eyes, is said to make the ideal wife—the wife the man paints in brain pictures before marriage. She yields the reins of a household with a natural aptitude for her onerous position, and at the same time allows her husband to rule over her and himself with a graceful complacency which her darker sister could never even assume.

Now, the secret of a fair woman's matrimonial success, says the Chicago Chronicle, lies in her temperament.

She is easy-going and, though generally possessed of a certain amount of natural conceit, that conceit never by any chance runs on intellectual lines; it is her mere personal prettiness and the like that give it birth. Thus she tacitly admits the superiority of man, bending herself unquestioningly to his will, and man, with the old inherent feudal instincts strong within him, accepts her subservience, and deems her an ideal wife accordingly, even though perchance she should fall short of many of the perfections of his pre-matrimonial ideal woman.

With a darker woman things matrimonial present a totally different aspect.

Her characteristics are averse to submission, as a fair woman accepts the meaning of the word, and, while realizing the burden of her vow to "love, honor and obey," she also considers it binding upon the man to levy only such laws of obedience upon her as he himself will also observe.

She resents the aspersions that women were merely created for decorative purposes within their husband's home, and in many instances under the cramping confines of domesticity the dark woman has discovered a latent capacity to storm the labor market which has been crushed dormant by the heredity of generations.

When this happens woe and bitterness enter into the family camp; for the man, fearing he or his home and creature comforts may be neglected, starts a series of petty oppositions that crush out the sentiment and love of marriage.

The onus of settling down and accepting the humdrum routine of the average domestic life finds scant favor with a brunette; her instincts are not domestic. She can love, and with her the grand passion is a passion that verily becomes part of her being, but the highest, holiest love of the wide world over all will not eradicate inherent characteristics, though for a time it may cast them into the background by the brilliancy of its glow. And under the influence of that novelty the dark bride will make a semblance of successful housekeeping.

Excess Of Smoking Affected My Heart

So I Had To Sit Up To Breathe.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Cured Me.

There is nothing that has a more deleterious effect upon the cardiac or heart system than the excessive use of tobacco. Pain and tenderness around the heart, a feeling of the chest, choking sensation in the throat, discomfort from indigestion, a weak heart, smokers who feel these symptoms and who do not understand their meaning should be warned in time, by the following experience:

"I was greatly troubled with an affection of the heart, due to excessive smoking. On writing to you for advice I was directed to begin a course of treatment, which included Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, Dr. Miles' Nervine and Nerve and Liver Pills together with bathing, etc. I faithfully followed the directions given and am pleased to say that my cure is complete and permanent. Before beginning the use of your remedies I was so nervous I could not keep my hands still and suffered greatly from severe pains around the heart. Many times at night I would be forced to assume a sitting posture to get my breath, and for the time being it would seem as though my heart had stopped beating. From the splendid results achieved in my case I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, Restorative Nerve and other remedies to all who are afflicted with nervous troubles."—Yours truly, ELIJAH HALL, Dothan, Ala.

FEMALE WEAKNESS

5613-12 Congress St.

FORWARD, MAINE, Oct. 17, 1902. I consider Wine of Cardui superior to any other medicine I have used. I suffered from the most distressing menstruation which completely prostrated me. I was unable to get through my back and sides and I would have sworn I would never get well again. I was discouraged for I seemed to be beyond the help of physicians, but Wine of Cardui came as a God-send to me. I felt a change for the better within a week. After fifteen days treatment I was restored without suffering the agonies I usually did and soon became regular and without pain. Wine of Cardui is simply wonderful and I wish that all suffering women knew of the good qualities.

Willemin Bros. Treasurers, Portland Economic League.

Periodical headaches tell of female weakness. Wine of Cardui cures permanently nineteen out of every twenty cases of irregular menses, bearing down pains or any female weakness. If you are discouraged and dieting have failed, this is the best reason in the world you should try Wine of Cardui now. Remember that headaches mean female weakness. Send a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui today.

WINE OF CARDUI

HIS QUESTION ANSWERED.

At Any Rate, the Inquisitive Drammer Asked No More.

A passenger entered a railway carriage in Australia in which was seated a particularly aggressive commercial traveler, and placed in the rack opposite a small wooden box pierced with holes, says the Sporting Times.

In the conversation which followed the commercial traveler gave several hints that he would like to know what was in the box, without avail. At last his curiosity got the better of him.

"I say, old man," he asked, "what have you in that box?"

"A mongoose," was the reply.

A series of diplomatic remarks followed, aimed at getting the reason for carrying a mongoose; but, as no explanation was offered, the commercial traveler had to say plump out:

"What are you going to do with that mongoose?"

The answer he got was: "I'm going to see a friend who has been thinking of late—so heavily, in fact, that he has developed delirium tremens. You may be aware that people so suffering are inclined to see snakes, and you may also be aware that there is nothing on earth so deadly to snakes as a mongoose."

He sat back, evidently satisfied that he had given a full and complete explanation.

"But—but, I say," said the commercial traveler, "those snakes are imaginary."

"So is my mongoose," returned the person interrogated.

BIRTH OF A BUTTERFLY.

Pupating of Caterpillar as Described by an Eye-Witness.

"The Listener" of the Boston Transcript was fortunate enough to witness lately the pupating of a "Monarch" caterpillar which had been captured and placed in a cage for that purpose. The caterpillar, after a short period of dumps, attached his feet to the top of the box and hung head downward for several hours.

Then began a most curious process of denuding itself of its black and yellow striped skin and sealing itself up in a small, transparent green case, suspended by a slender stem that was fastened securely to the top of the box. This case was like a shell, smooth and shiny and quite hard, and was decorated with tiny yellow spots here and there. After two weeks of close watching, the chrysalis was found one morning cracked from end to end, and clinging to the wire netting was a beautiful great butterfly, all black and red, his newly unfolded wings slowly moving back and forth in the morning light. A few drops of chloroform painfully put an end to his brief existence, and he now lies entombed in a plaster paragon, a thing of beauty and an ornament worth having.

BRAVEST HUNTERS IN WORLD

Rubber Cutters of Central America Fight Jaguars with Machetes.

President Roosevelt, Selous, Gordon Cumming and other world-famous hunters of big game must play second fiddle to the "rubber cutters" of the Chiriqui forests in Central America. It is the daily business and pleasure of these men to fight jaguars and cheetahs with no better weapon than the long, heavy knife called a machete in Latin-American countries.

Wandering alone in the jungle in search of rubber trees, says the Chicago Inter Ocean, the rubber cutter lives for months among the forest of all American wild beasts until he learns to treat them with scorn.

At night he swings his hammock between a couple of trees, rolls a cigarette and lies down for a comfortable smoke before dozing off. Presently he hears the long, snarling roar of the jaguar, the sharp bark of the alligator, or the catlike whine of the cheetah.

"Caramba!" he mutters, discontentedly. "I suppose I'd better make a fire."

Perhaps he is too lazy, and just drops off to sleep, ready to fight any wild beast that dares to disturb his dreams. But if he is a cautious man, he builds a little hut of branches and lights a wood fire in the doorway. Then he slings his hammock inside the hut, places his machete by his side, and with the blazing, crackling fire on one side and the whispering roof on the other, sleeps as tranquilly as though there were no jaguars or alligators nearer than the New York "zoo."

Seldom does a rubber cutter return to the civilized settlements without a few skins of jaguars, slain in deadly combat with machete or club. He often seeks out the wild beasts and fights them for a dinner when he runs short of food.

Luis Mendoza, a famous hunter and rubber cutter of Spanish Honduras, was once attacked by a cheetah when asleep in his hammock. He woke up to find the beast on his chest, digging its claws into his neck. Seizing it by the throat, he swung out of the hammock into the wood fire burning a few yards away. Over and over they rolled among the blazing sticks, until the cheetah, howling with pain, broke away and fled into the jungle.

The ordinary man would have been satisfied with that victory. Not so Mendoza. Covered with wounds and burns as he was, he caught up his machete and followed the trail of that cheetah for two days until he caught it and slew it after another desperate battle.

No wonder the beasts of the forest have a healthy respect for the rubber cutters of Chiriqui! Taught by bitter experience, they seldom attack them now.

"Why don't you carry a gun?" one of these men was asked.

"It is too heavy, and what need?" was the reply. "I would like to see the wild beast that I could not kill with my machete. Why, I have known men to fight a jaguar with their bare hands and strangle it. There is no sport hunting with a gun. It is child's work."

A Hard Worker.

In his present position Lord Curzon works 14 hours a day. He starts in the early morning, works till half past one—or lunch time—he gives an hour and a half to the numerous guests he has, then he works again till dinner time; at half past ten he leaves his dinner guests, goes to his study and remains there till two o'clock in the morning. He seldom spends more than an hour and a half in the open air each day. And he works at this high pressure wherever he may be—on board a steamer, in a railway or when resting at one of his temporary dwellings during his tours. And yet those who meet him as his guest can scarce realize that he is so terrible a worker.

Lord Salisbury. The late Lord Salisbury behaved to those about him with fatherly benignity, not unimpaired by humor. One of his secretaries was interrupted, on one occasion, when conversing with him over the telephone. He turned on the intruder and addressed him with winged words. Immediately afterwards Lord Salisbury was heard saying: "Go on, please; your last words were—" and he repeated verbatim the rebuke delivered to the interrupter by the angry secretary.
